KIDS WORSHIP

common good RADIO

Because we believe we have a responsibility to empower young people to live out their faith and spirituality, Common Good Radio has created programming for children to speak out, listen to one another and the world around them, and be heard. We grab the opportunity to show leadership and model personal responsibility by participating in and creating digital media with children. We offer these programs so young people can begin to learn about the digital culture that often attempts to exploit them by melding media and commercial advertising.

Your local church can join this program as part of a rotation model or as a stand-alone ministry. Using little more than a smart phone, the children you love can write, speak, reflect, record, and edit spiritual messages for your website and send them to be programmed into the music and talk heard in over sixty countries through common good

RADIO.

By creating media, your children will construct a faith narrative, grounded in scripture and expressed in their own words, that echoes their world view and finds validation through Common Good Radio's global reach and global input.
